A Messenger on the Way from Sing Sing to the District-Attorney.

ALBANY, May 1 .- This afternoon Gov. Morton granted a respite to Robert Buchanan, the condemned wife-murderer, until Wednesday, May 8. He took this action at the advice and request of Col John R. Fellows, District-Attorney of New York. The Attorney-General having decided that the appeal to the United States Supreme Court in the application for a writ of habeas corpus acted as a stay, the question as to the legal day upon which the murderer could be executed arose, and it was the general opinion would have to be resentenced by the court in which he was originally sen

District-Attorney Fellows desires to wold the necessity of such procedure so he advised the Governor to give the prisoner a respite of another week. If the Supreme Court decides against Buchanan before that time the sentence will be executed on that day. If the case is not decided by that time the Governor may issue another respite. All Depends Upon Counsel.

Deputy Attorney-General Hasbrouck, who advised Warden Sage, of Sing Sing, not to execute Dr. Buchanan to-day, said this afternoon that he didn't know what steps would now be taken to carry out the sentence of death imposed upon the wife poisoner.

It all depends, to his view, upon the sflort of Buchanan's lawyers to compel the United States courts to file nis application for an appear Mr. Hasbrouck said he had simply advised the warden in the matter and vised the warden in the matter and does not think the Attorney-General will be called upon to take any steps in SING SING, May 1.—Dr. Buchanan is He was made a brigadier-general of vol.

SING SING, May 1.—Dr. Buchanan is panic-stricken.

He has not yet neard of Gov. Morton's second reprieve, and is in constant fear that the death sentence will be executed despite the desperate efforts of his counsel to secure a stay.

Sage Notified by Morton.

Shortly before 1 o'clock Warden Sage received a telephone message from Ashley Cole, Gov. Morton's private secretary, stating that the Governor had granted Buthanan a further respite of one week, beginning at midnight 19-night and ending at midnight next Wednes.

He was made a brigadier-general of volunteers in 1861 and commanded a brigade in the effenses of Washington.

In 1882 he was promoted to be major-general, commanding the Third Division, of the Sixth Corps, in the storming of Mayre Heights. He was in many of the most important engagements during the war. Since the war Gen. Newton has had charge of removing obstructions at Hell Gate and other points in the East River.

Warden Sage at once announced this to the newspaper men, and also notified Electrician Davis that he could go to his home. The Warden said he would notify Buchanan of the Governor's latest this afternoon.

Warden Sage said that unless he received a further order from the Court he would execute Buchanan next Wednesday morning, as soon after 11 oclock as possible.
For the third time he will send out intertions to the witnesses to be tresent. vitations to the witnesses to be present at that time.

After the Warden had finished lunch, Buchanan's dinner of roast beef, baked potatoes and rice pudding was sent to the death house, and Warden Sage fol-lowed to tell him of the unexpected re-mite. "Doctor," said the Warden, "you are respited for a week."
Buchanan looked at Col. Sage for a few moments in silence. Then he said:
"That is strange. What does it

"That is strange, that yourself," answered Sage. "I have had nothing but the bare announcement."

Buchanan showed little emotion at the news. He had evidently expected a much longer stay.

When Warden Sage went to Buchanan's cell at 1030 o'clock to-day the cendemned man had just awakened.

On sight of the Warden he sprang to his feet and asked excitedly:
"Will it be to-day"
The Warden explained the situation in a few words, and ended by saying:
"If the stay is removed, it will be my duty to go at once with the execution."
All Buchanan's nervousness of yesterday broke out again, and he deluged Col. Sage with a multitude of frightened suestions.

The Warden soothed the paic-stricken nan as best he could by saying that is lawyers were doubtless doing their eat to save him, and there might, after ill be hope.

Col. Sage told a reporter afterwards that he left Buchanan in a more nervous ate than at any time since his connement in the death-house.
